

The world's leading fresh produce conference and networking events

By John
Hey

Thursday 1st April 2021, 9:30 GMT

Logistics on the move in India

Leading players on India's logistics scene to discuss exciting cold chain investments at Fresh Produce India

India is witnessing exciting new investments in cold chain logistics. Tune in to Fresh Produce India on 22 April to hear expert speakers discuss some landmark developments and innovative solutions to improve the country's fresh fruit and vegetable distribution.

Dhruv Kotak, managing director of premier Indian shipping services company, JM Baxi Group, provides his expert perspective on India's changing logistics landscape. He explains how privatisation of state-owned logistics companies and digitalisation will reshape the sector.

Joining Kotak is Tarun Arora, director of leading Indian importer IG International. The pair discuss a tie-up between JM Baxi and IG to construct a world-class coldchain handling facility in Mumbai and their partnership to use JM Baxi's container freight station in Nhava Sheva to cut lead-times and speed up deliveries across India.

Rail also has a key role to play in improving fresh produce logistics in India. Hind Terminals' head of rail sales Deepak Kanuga talks about its inland container depot at Palwal, a cargo gateway to India's National Capital Region encompassing New Delhi and surrounding urban areas.

Following the standout success of its first digital edition last April, Fresh Produce India is back online on 22 April with a top-quality programme of live interviews, discussions and presentations.

Dhruv Kotak, MD of JM Baxi (left), and IG International's Tarun Arora (right) will discuss their tie-up on the construction of world-class coldstore in the Nhava Sheva area near Mumbai port

Fresh Produce India is a free-to-register online event. Sessions are available to view live and on-demand, and speakers are on-hand to answer questions during their sessions via the live online chat. Fruitnet's new online event platform enables delegates to access every interactive session, network with delegates and connect with sponsors.

Fresh Produce India broadcasts live from 13:00-17:40hrs India Standard Time.

To register, or for more information, visit the website:

www.freshproduceindia.com